I verily believe the original patent to be wholly or partly inoperative or invalid, for the reasons described below.
(Check all boxed that apply.)

- ☒ by reason of a defective specification or drawings.
- ☒ by reason of the patentee claiming more or less than he had the right to claim in the patent.
- ☒ by reason of other errors.

At least one error upon which reissue is based is described as follows:

Pursuant to 37 C.F.R. §1.175, Applicant believes the original aforesaid patent to be wholly or partly inoperative by reason of a defective specification or drawings, and by reason of the patentee claiming more or less than the patentee had the right to claim in the patent.

I believe the original aforesaid patent to be wholly or partly inoperative by reason of errors in the specification.

Also, Applicant erred by allowing claims to issue with grammatical errors that may affect the scope of coverage of those claims. By way of example, claim 7 refers to "said one data address mark", although the presence of "one" appears to be in error.

Additionally, Applicant erred by claiming less than he was entitled to claim. Newly presented independent claim 16 alternatively, and more broadly defines Applicant's process while using fewer limitations.

Moreover, newly presented claims 16 through 34 alternatively define the several patentable features of Applicant's invention broadly, without surplus and without unnecessary limitations restricting the scope of coverage provided by these claims, in broad terms commensurate with the scope of Applicant's invention. These newly presented claims 16 and 34 more broadly define Applicant's inventions without the phrase "skipping a remaining data address mark" as defined by independent claim 1, and without the phrase "detecting said address mark" as defined by independent claim 7, thereby more broadly defining Applicant's inventions. These errors arose without any deceptive of intention on the part of the Applicant. Failure to recognize the possibility of more broadly claiming Applicant's invention during the prosecution was inadvertent and unintentional. Furthermore, no amendments of Applicant's originally filed claims were in any sense an admission that the scope of that claim was not in fact patentable. Accordingly, Applicant erred in not obtaining a broad and extensive scope of coverage of his invention.
